Q.1. Why is Mrs. Pumphrey worried about Tricki?

Ans: Mrs. Pumphrey is worried about Tricki because he is unwell. He has refused to eat food and had bouts of vomiting. She feels that he is suffering from a serious health issue such as malnutrition.

Q.2. What does she do to help him? Is she wise in this?

Ans: Mrs. Pumphrey starts giving him extra snacks like malt, cod-liver oil, and Horlicks, apart from his main meals, to improve his condition. She also continues to satisfy his sweet tooth with cream cakes and chocolates. She does not give him any exercise, considering his listlessness as well. She is not wise in doing so because overfeeding Tricki is worsening his condition instead of improving it. It has made him very fat and lazy.

Q. 3. Who does 'I' refer to in this story?

Ans: 'I' refers to the narrator, Mr. James Herriot, a veterinary doctor.

Q. 4. Is the narrator as rich as Tricki's mistress?

Ans: No, the narrator is not as rich as Tricki's mistress, Mrs. Pumphrey. We can say so because the narrator seems fascinated by how lavishly Mrs. Pumphrey spends on the well-being and maintenance of her pet. He is unusually surprised by the enriching items she sends for Tricki, as he cannot afford them for himself.

Q. 5. How does he treat the dog?

Ans: James Herriot treats Tricki just like he would treat an overweight and lazy dog, which Tricki is. He cuts down his food intake and keeps him under strict observation for the initial days at the hospital. He gradually increases Tricki's food and sets him free from physical activities to improve his health.

Q.6. Why is he tempted to keep Tricki on as a permanent guest?

Ans: Mr. Herriot is tempted to keep Tricki on as a permanent guest because of the good food and wine he is enjoying in Tricki's name. He does not want to lose the luxurious inflow of fresh eggs, wine, and brandy.

Q. 7. Why does Mrs. Pumphrey think the dog's recovery is a triumph of surgery?

Ans: Mrs. Pumphrey thinks that Tricki's recovery is a triumph of surgery because his illness was very serious. She believed that there were very few chances for Tricki to improve and that he needed immediate medical attention. Thus, according to her, his revival without any medicinal treatment was a great achievement.

Think About It

Q.1. What kind of a person do you think the narrator, a veterinary surgeon, is? Would you say he is tactful as well as full of common sense?

Ans: The narrator, a veterinary surgeon, is a capable and wise doctor. He handles Tricki properly which shows that he is sincere about his profession. He does not operate upon the dog unnecessarily and cures him by altering his diet and activities.

He is a tactful person as he knew exactly how to convince Mrs. Pumphrey to hospitalize Tricki for surgery. His decision to inform Mrs. Pumphrey to collect Tricki supports his sensibilities even though he was tempted to keep Tricki as a permanent guest.

Q. 2. Do you think Tricki was happy to go home? What do you think will happen now?

Ans: Tricki was happy to go back home as he loved his mistress and the comfort of his lavish life. He didn't have any friends at home like in the hospital, but he seemed equally excited at the sight of Mrs. Pumphrey. I think that Mrs. Pumphrey will now be careful about Tricky's diet and health. She may also give him exercise daily as prescribed by the vet earlier.

Q. 3. Do you think it is a real-life episode or mere fiction? Or is it a mixture of both?

Ans: The story seems to be a mixture of both. It may be possible for rich persons to overfeed their pets due to love. It is not unusual for them to maintain a vast wardrobe for them either. But it is unlikely for a veterinary doctor to go out of the way and lie to save an animal. It is also unusual for anyone to consume food that is given in the name of a pet's health.

Talk About It

Q. 1. This episode describes the silly behavior of a rich woman who is foolishly indulgent, perhaps because she is lonely. Do you think such people are merely silly or can their actions cause harm to others?

Ans: Mrs. Pumphrey's actions had a harmful reaction on Tricky's health. She was over parenting' and overfeeding Tricky in the name of love. This worsened his condition to the extent that he had to be hospitalized. People like Mrs Pumphrey are not just merely silly but their actions can have dangerous consequences for others.

Q. 2. Do you think there are also parents like Mrs Pumphrey?

Ans: Yes, some parents like Mrs. Pumphrey spoil their children by pampering them. They overfeed their children/pets despite being aware of the harmful effects on their health. Parents like Mrs. Pumphrey should maintain a healthy lifestyle for their family and pets.

Q. 3. What would you have done if you were?

a member of the staff in Mrs. Pumphrey's household, a neighbor? What would your life have been like, in general?

Ans: If I were a member of the staff in her household I would not have followed Mrs Pumphrey's command to feed Tricky blindly. I would have fed him according to the vet's advice. I would have also skipped sending the unnecessary stuff like toys, cushions, etc to the hospital. My life would have been very busy, as I would have had to take care of the household chores and meet Tricki's demands on time.

If I were Mrs Pumphrey's neighbor, I would have advised her to consult a vet and follow his advice strictly keeping in mind Tricki's deteriorating health. I would have also been supportive in their hard time when Tricki was hospitalized. My life as Mrs. Pumphrey's neighbor would have been full of surprises and gifts as Mrs. Pumphrey was a loving lady.

Q.4. What would you have done if you were in the narrator's place?

Ans: If I were in the narrator's place, I would have treated Tricki with a similar amount of compassion and love. I would have been equally caring as Mr. James Herriot towards Tricki. I would have just been a little sterner while advising Mrs. Pumphrey to put Tricki on a strict diet knowing her way of showing love. I would have also not consumed Tricki's share of eggs, wine, and brandy sent by Mrs. Pumphrey.
