Formal Education: Formal education is basically a practice of learning where a human learns basic, academic or some trade skills for his living. Formal education or formal learning initiates at the basic level. Further, it continues till the college or university level where people study bachelor and master courses. It comes under a certain combination of rules and regulations, and it may provide a formal degree after the completion of the course. It is provided by the teachers that are highly qualified and educated and are under strict discipline as well. Informal Education: Informal education is the type of education where people are not studying in a specific school or a college. They do not use any specific learning method or technique. When a father teaches his son how to ride a bicycle or a mother teaches her daughter how to cook food, then these learnings fall under the category of Informal Education. A person can get informal education by reading some books from any library or any educational website on the internet. However, unlike the formal education, informal education has no particular syllabus or any specific time period for learning.

Title : Formal & Informal Education

Summarizing-

Formal education means people are studying in school or college. It continues till university level and provide formal degree certificate. Highly qualified teachers are there. Informal education means not studying in school. We can learn many activity from family. We learn from website on the internet. In informal education no syllabus, no time limits for learning.

Solved Activity:

Education is not an end but a means to an end. In other words, we do not educate children only for the purpose of educating them; the purpose is to make them fit for life. As soon as we realize this fact, we will understand that it is important to choose a system of education which will really prepare children for life. In many modern countries it has for some time been fashionable to think that by free education for all- whether rich or poor, clever or stupid – one can solve all the problems of society and build a perfect nation. But we can already see that free education for all is not enough. Because we can find in such countries a large number of people with university degrees than there are jobs for them to fill. But we have only to think for a moment to understand that the work of completely uneducated farmer is far more important than that of a professor. We can live without education, but we die if we have no food. If no one cleaned our streets and took the rubbish away, we would get terrible diseases. In fact, when we say that all of us must be educated, we mean that all of us must be educated in such a way that, first, each of us can do whatever job is suited to his brain and ability and secondly, that we can realize that all jobs are necessary for society and it is very bad to be ashamed of one's work or to scorn someone else's. Only such type of education can

- be called valuable to society.

Title : Purpose of Education

Summarizing-

The purpose of education is to make children fit for life. Some modern countries think that free education will solve all the problems. Rather free education has created unemployment among the educated and false sense of dignity. They consider it below dignity to do a 'low' work. But manual work is necessary. If food is not produced and street are not cleaned, we cannot live. We can dispense with intellectual work but not with manual work. So, education should teach work according to their capacity and ability and it is not good to be ashamed of any work because all jobs are necessary for society.
