Ans: Abdul Kalam inherited honesty and self-discipline from his father and faith in goodness and kindness from his mother. Like his parents even he respected all religions.

Long Answer Type Questions

Q.1. What do you know about APJ Abdul Kalam's family after reading the lesson "My Childhood"?

Ans: APJ Abdul Kalam tells us that his family was a Tamil middle-class family from Rameshwaram. His father Jainulabdeen was not much educated, wasn't rich but was a generous, wise, simple man but very strict and served. His mother Ashiamma was a generous lady and used to feed unlimited numbers of people in their home. Kalam's family respected all religions. They took part in Hindu festivals. His mother and grandmother told him stories from Ramayana. They always showered their love on their children and never forced their thoughts on them.

Q.2. What incident took place at Rameshwaram Elementary school when a new teacher came to class?

Ans: Kalam used to wear a cap and Ramanandha Sastry wore a sacred thread that marked him to be Brahmin. When the new teacher came he could not tolerate a Hindu priest's son sitting next to a Muslim boy. He ordered Kalam to go and sit on the back bench. This made Ramanandha sad. Abdul started to sit in the last row but it left a wrong impression on Abdul. Both the kids narrated the incident to their parents. As a result, the teacher was rebuked and reprimanded for spreading communalism and hatred among the children.

Q3. How did Abdul Kalam earn his "first wages"? How did he feel at that time?

Ans: Kalam was only 8 years old when the Second World War broke out in 1939. Then there was a great demand for tamarind seeds. Abdul used to collect those seeds and sell them in the market. His cousin Samsuddin distributed newspapers. The train would not stop at Rameshwaram and the bundles of newspapers were thrown from the running train. Abdul was employed by his cousin to collect them. This way he earned his first wages. He felt very proud of earning his first wages.

Q4. "Once you decide to change the system, such problems must be confronted." What system is being referred to in the sentence from the chapter "My childhood"? What are such problems?

Ans: System means a system of discrimination on the basis of religion. The system includes the narrow-mindedness and poison of social inequality and communal intolerance. The Brahmins did not allow Muslims to enter their kitchen. The Science teacher - a rebel by nature, invited Kalam to his home and proved that if one is determined to face problems and change the system, he will definitely succeed. Though such indifferences come in everybody's life a person should have a broader outlook and overcome the obstacles.

Q5. How was the Science teacher Siva Subramaniam Iyer, thought an orthodox? Brahmin with a very conservative wife, a friend of Abdul Kalam.

Give incidents to support your answer.

Ans: The science teacher, Siva Subramaniam Iyer, wanted to break the social barriers between the Hindus and the Muslims. He wanted Kalam to be very highly educated as recognized his intelligence. One day, he invited him over to a meal. His orthodox wife was totally horrified at the idea of a Muslim boy dining in her ritually pure kitchen. He did not mind anything said by his very conservative wife. He rather served the food to Abdul by his own hands. He also sat with him and dined together as well as invited him over again for another meal the coming weekend. Thus, this shows that he was a friend of Abdul Kalam even though Kalam was a Muslim and he himself was an orthodox Brahmin.

Value-Based Question

1. 'Childhood is the formative period of a child's life. The lessons learned here always stay with a person. Comment on it in the light of the reading APJ Abdul Kalam.

Ans: APJ Abdul Kalam is one of the finest scientists in our country and was also our eleventh President. From his autobiography "Wings of Fire," it is amply clear that lessons learned in our childhood not only shape our personality but also decide the kind of person we become. He learned the lessons of religious tolerance, honesty, and self-discipline early in his life. These qualities stayed with him throughout his life and have helped to make him one of the finest President of our country with so many diverse cultures
